

Biology 102 Course Objectives

- To introduce the student to the diversity of organisms within the biosphere.
- To understand and appreciate the intricate interrelationships within an ecosystem.
- To introduce the student to comparative anatomy and physiology of different organisms.
- To introduce the student to evolution and an appreciation of its impact on organisms.
- To give an understanding of the economic and sociological importance of living things.
- To explore the possibilities of future biological achievements.